

NLN Exam – 2010 Test Dates

Pre-RN Admission Exam

ALL students who wish to be screened for NUR 133 (Registered Nursing) are required to take the National League for Nursing Pre-Nursing Examination-RN. This examination measures the student’s academic aptitude in the areas of verbal ability, mathematics, and science. It will be used by the Nursing Department for screening purposes.

Beginning with the FALL 2010 (September 1, 2010) you must achieve at or above the 50th percentile score in each of the test components, verbal ability, mathematics, and science AND at or above the 60th percentile composite score to be considered for the CLC nursing program. The test must be taken, and the official results must be on file in your CLC student record by the screening deadline for the term for which you are applying.
